

Starting Solids

A HEALTHY FEEDING PLAN

As one of the first things you do together, feeding is a time when you and your baby learn about each other. It's a time when babies explore their independence and discover how to interact. It's also the beginning of establishing lifelong eating habits. Research shows that babies know how much food they need. And they'll tell you in many ways — smiling, reaching toward the spoon, opening their mouths.

WHEN IS BABY READY FOR SOLIDS?

- ✓ Doubles birth weight and weighs at least 13 pounds.
- ✓ Seems hungry after 8 to 10 breastfeedings a day or drinks 32 ounces of formula a day.
- ✓ Lifts and supports head.

BETWEEN NOW AND THE NEXT CHECKUP

Start feeding your baby some of the single-ingredient baby foods listed in the 1st Foods Schedule. Here are some basic guidelines:

- ✓ Start with 1 tablespoon single-grain cereal, mixed with 4 tablespoons breast milk, formula or water. Decrease the amount of fluid as your baby gets used to the consistency.
- ✓ Add only one new food at a time. Feed each new food 3 to 5 days in a row before starting another one. (To see how the food agrees with your baby).
- ✓ Start a new food in the morning; if it doesn't agree with your baby, you'll know before bedtime.
- ✓ You can repeat a food already given, and pair familiar favorites on the spoon with new foods.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS

MEALTIME IS YOUR TIME TOGETHER

- ✓ Atmosphere — Spend some quiet time together to create a relaxed atmosphere.
- ✓ Preparation — Get your “tools” together before you start: bib, baby spoon, food, moist towel (expect a bit of a mess).
- ✓ Position — Hold baby in a slightly reclined, sitting position on your lap.
- ✓ Quantity — Place small tastes on the tip of a spoon and place in baby’s mouth. Never force a baby to eat. They “listen” to their hunger cues and do not under- or over-eat.
- ✓ Very first tastes — Your baby’s first tries at swallowing solid food will be awkward. Your baby may need practice. If the food is rejected, offer a few more spoonfuls. Sit back and enjoy seeing your baby learn something new: how to eat solid foods.
